THEIR BLOOD NOW STIRS HONOLULU'S PEOPLE

FEELING BLOOD HAS MOVED

attorney here, to consider a pardon for the four convicted "honor slayers." It was learned today.

Wood, it was reported, had been instructed by Attorney General Mitchell to inquire into the situation, but principals in the mysterious party which may spell freedom for the four Americans refused comment.

WOULD LIFT STIGMA

Efforts here to ease the stigma of conviction imposed on Grant Thomas H. Masie, Mrs. Grace Fortescue and two sailors accused of killing Joseph Kahahawai coincided with the movement in Congress to reverse the decision of the military board that Masieville, fearing violence from naval sympathizers, police and special guards at the home of the four half-breeds accused with Kahahawai of a brutal assault on Mrs. Thalia Masie.

The retrial of the remaining defendants in the Ala Moana attack case has been tentatively set for May 25.

Threats against the men accused with Kahahawai have been openly expressed on the streets of Honolulu as a result of the outpouring of emotions against the four Americans.

BOYCOTT UNDER WAY

A boycott is sweeping through Honolulu's economic life as the action to last Friday's conviction of four Americans for lynching a Hawaiian.

Attention today also turned to the case of assault upon women pending on the criminal calendar.

The first of the charges against Joseph Young, 22-year-old Korean, accused of attacking a young Chinese girl, Hia Hia, sits today.

Legislation to prevent acquittal of the four accused men by a second martial law pending before both Congress and the Hawaiian Legislature.

Only such action could set aside the degradation placed on the United States flag by the territorial jury's decision, the resolutions declared.

Brooklyn Women Protest Verdict

New York, May 3 (INS)—Resolutions protesting the conviction of the Honolulu "honor slayers" adopted by the Brooklyn Women's Constitutional Hoover-Curtis Committee were sent today to President Hoover and members of Congress.

Flores we made also to set aside the verdict against Masie, Thomas H. Masie, U. S. N. Mr. Granville R. Fortescue and the two enlisted naval men in the Hawaii trial.

HUSBAND ON WAY

"They're all feeling better—it doesn't seem so bad to them now as it first appeared," said Darrow after the trial.

Mrs. Fortescue, the one most admired of the four, was accompanied by a radiogram which stated that her husband, Mr. Robert Fortescue, was on his way to Honolulu on May 12 aboard the steamer Maritima.

Darrow declared he would probably be in Chicago and coming back to Honolulu later, however, the exact date is uncertain as yet.

TRADES OF BOYCOTT

The retrial is generally expected to be within two weeks.

While the boycott was hard to trace, it was unmistakable.

Walter Napoleon, mail carrier and Hawaiian member of the legislature, applied for police protection after he was threatened by telephone. His employees, John O'Leary and others, would disregard threats of customers to boycott his store unless Napoleon was discharged.

WILL BYE, A JURY

Willy Bye, a juror and leading taxi cab manufacturer, admitted he has received no orders from the navy since the conviction and attributed little significance to it.

The Matsuo line, owned by John F. Stone, white foreigner of the jury, denied steamship bookings were being cancelled.

Sales of Army and Navy commodities here are open to all, and the men were reported on the increase.

While Resentment in Navy Circles

While resentment in Navy circles was admitted, leaves of sailors from Hawaii were not curtailed.

A naval officer who stated that his name not used, said service men would be their bit to keep the peace and the name was expected of Honolulu residents.

He said that while the navy expects its men to control their feelings, the navy will have no objection to the expression of their own feelings.

Massie Pardon Plea

Wired to Hoover

Oakland, Cal., May 3 (AP)—Telegraphic requests in President Hoover, Senator Hiram Johnson and Representative Albert E. Carter, urging pardon for Grant Thomas H. Masie and co-defendants convicted of manslaughter in the killing of Joseph Kahahawai in Honolulu, were sent last night to Mr. C. C. Harris, president of the Oakland Civic Center.

Dr. Joseph C. Harris, President

Dr. Joseph C. Harris, president of the prosecution, who testified for the prosecution that Masie was sane, returned to San Francisco yesterday. Harris was expected to appear at a jury disagreement.

Referring to the insanity defense for Masie, Dr. C. Harris said:

"I believe justifiable homicide would have been a better and more logical defense."

WON'T FIGHT PARDON

Meanwhile the prosecution in the Fortescue-Masie case indicated that there would be no opposition to a pardon for the American woman and three navy men convicted for the killing of a native Hawaiian.

While Prosecutor John C. Kelley declined to commit himself definitely, he said he had no idea of opposing a pardon for the four accused men.

Barry Kelly, Special Assistant

Barry Kelly, special assistant to Kelley in the trial, declared he was willing to leave the matter of pardon to the attorney general.

"Personally, I will take no active steps to oppose a pardon," said Kelly, who is a Harvard graduate and one of the most prominent attorneys here. "We are not so much interested in the severity of punishment as in maintaining law and order."

GIVEN UP ON OUTCOME

GIVEN UP ON OUTCOME OF the "honor slaying" trial.

"I have been busy with legislative affairs and have not had time to study the case," he said.

Under the organic law of Hawaii a governor has wide powers in the matter of pardons and clemency.

ing, and increase the production of commodities to be bought.

That means increasing business and expanding industry.

To take the opposite course is suicidal.

To diminish incomes is to reduce purchasing power, to restrict the selling of commodities and the consequent production of commodities, and the consequent employment of labor in the production and selling of commodities.

These facts are the very primer of economics.

IT seems incomprehensible that intelligent men in the House and Senate should be so blind to the elements of the situation.

With the tax question simply and systematically solved, the Senate and House could turn their attention to the relief of unemployment.

This must be done by expanding instead of contracting the program of public works.

A properly bond issue of five billion dollars would be sufficient to relieve unemployment during the period of depression and to promote the quick return of normally prosperous conditions.

Here again it seems wholly obvious and elemental that this money distributed to the unemployed in wages upon government work will immediately be spent in the purchase of commodities which these workers urgently need.

The production and disposal of these commodities would give employment to hundreds of thousands of other workers, who in turn would spend their wages in buying necessary commodities.

THIS increase in purchasing power and in actual buying, and consequent selling and resultant manufacture, would start the wheels of industry in motion, revive business, and tend to restore prosperity.

The essentials of the situation in this economic crisis are to increase incomes and enlarge purchasing power, and so promote prosperity, and not to aggravate and intensify the depression by decreasing incomes and diminishing purchasing power.

Surely the intelligent American citizens in the Senate and House have enough clearness of vision and enough patriotic concern for their country to recognize their obligation to the community and to perform it without further aimless confusion and disastrous delay.

Plea Asking Gov. Judd to Free Them

Washington, May 3 (INS)—Prompt and unconditional pardon for Lieut. Thomas H. Masie and the other three defendants in Honolulu's "honor slaying" case, was demanded today by 36 members of Congress in a petition cabled to Gov. Judd of Hawaii by Representative M. H. Thatcher of Kentucky.

The petition was freely signed by members. Thatcher said, and many more names will be added as soon as he can visit the office of the members.

The petition declares that the signers believe the pardon will serve the best interests of Hawaii as well as meet the demands of justice. The signers include:

Bostonian Wires Prosecutor

"He's Disgrace, Change Name," Honolulu, May 3 (INS)—A flood of radiograms voicing both censure and praise have deluged Governor John C. Kelley and Chief Deputy Counsel Clarence Darrow as a result of the "honor slaying" trial.

"You are a disgrace to the fight it out an outrageous verdict—impossible to understand," were some of the phrases from messages received by Darrow.

One Chicago judge, in a lengthy message urging legal action for the case, suggested that a new trial. A New York attorney offered to take the case to the appeal.

Chicago seemed to be the focal point for the messages to Darrow, although many came from Washington, New York and Philadelphia.

Prosecutor Kelley was both praised and condemned in the radiograms received, in contrast to the uniformly laudatory tone of those received by Darrow.

A Boston Irishman who did not give his name wired Kelley: "You are a disgrace to the Irish. Change your name."

"You are a disgrace to the Irish. Change your name," Kelley smiled at this last, but did not answer.

Plea Asking Gov. Judd to Free Them

Washington, May 3 (AP)—The bonus hearing was converted today into a dispute over whether Secretary Mills had influenced the incorporation of a provision in the tax bill under the Treasury would pay revocation of his father's estate.

Mr. Patman, leading advocate of full payment of the bonus, charged that the war and reconstruction committee that Mills would get millions and said the bonus would amount to an "indecent burglary of the Treasury."

Democrats and Republicans on the committee came alike to the Secretary of the House.

Acting Chairman Clegg said the Secretary declined to commit to the provision because he would be a beneficiary under it. Senators Treadway, Doughton and Thud-burn joined in behalf of the Secretary.

Patman, the Bonus Advocate, Says That Secretary Would Benefit by Revaluation Plan

Patman was attempting to refute arguments Mills and House members, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, had made against the plan of new currency to redeem outstanding bonds and certificates. He offered to modify his plan to provide for the issuance of new currency.

Turning then to the Secretary, the House assailed the section of the bill which would allow a 100 percent revaluation of estates left between December 1, 1918, and January 1, 1922, to allow for depreciation in value due to the period of economic depression.

The House ways and means committee had proposed a cash payment of the soldiers' bonus and will meet behind closed doors and will meet to begin consideration of the plan.

'JUGGER' JOYCE IS NEAR DEATH IN SLASHING

Police Say Son of Engineer Was "Taken for a Ride"; Has Record of Arrests

Balked by his refusal to talk and his serious condition, police were unable to find a motive today for the attempted slaying in Newton of Frank "Jugger" Joyce, 30, of Dorchester, son of a city construction engineer.

Joyce was found at midnight in a lonely section of Newton Upper Falls, where knife wounds in his abdomen and slashes on his face.

En route to the hospital, he said he told to the Oak St. station, where he was found wounded, with three men he met in Boston.

"I don't know who they were, leave me alone," he repeatedly answered questions as to their identity.

EMERGENCY OPERATION.
Police Inspector Good of Newton could get no further information and had to halt the questioning after an emergency operation. Joyce's condition after the operation barred further questioning.

Good said he believed Joyce had been "taken for a ride" and that he was probably involved in some crime that he did not want to reveal.

At Boston police headquarters Joyce was found to have a record for shoplifting, possession of burglary tools and had been arrested in an altercation with a taxi driver over a girl.

The letter was the most recent received January 26 in front of the South Station. Traffic Officers Mr. Lean and Albano broke up the altercation and arrested Joyce for loitering after alleged failure to move on orders of police. He was fined $20.

IN GRAND JURY FROTH.
On the charge of possessing burglary tools, he was held for the grand jury in March, 1928, but the grand jury reported a no-bill.

His officers Brett and Dulles of Lagrange at station made no arrest. They charged they found an iron pipe in Joyce's sleeve as they questioned him for looking suspiciously at parked automobiles in Tremont St.

The shoplifting charge dated back to 1917, at which time he was looked as of a Summit ave., Everett, address.

The record lists aliases for him as Fred J. Moore, Frank Murphy and "Jugger" Joyce.

MET TWO IN AUTO.
At the time of the most recent arrest, he had a bankbook of the Bowery Savings Bank with $1 deposite.

Joyce told Newton police he met the three men in a sedan after he visited the State House to inquire his status on a civil service list.

More than 12 hours, from the time he met the three until he was found by Mr. and Mrs. Clement F. Doyle of Oak St., Newton Upper Falls, are unaccounted for.

RECENTLY IN N. Y.
Doyle said a dark sedan speeded from Oak St. just before the victim was found.

Joyce's father, Austin F. Joyce, is an engineer for the Boston tram commission.

He said his son returned from New York seven months ago when construction jobs there ran out. He made several trips there since and one to New Hampshire, the father said.

Frank Joyce, 30, a Dorchester construction engineer, who lies at the point of death in Newton Hospital suffering from knife wounds. He has refused to explain. Before he lapsed into a coma he told police three men had "taken him for a ride" from Dorchester. He was found with deep slashes in the abdomen, chest and face, lying in a lonely road in Newton Upper Falls. Investigation reveals victim has police record. (Staff photo.)

CRASHES TRAIN AT TOPSFIELD

Blinded by the sun, William F. Fitzmaurice, 53, of High St., Arlington, drove his coupe into the side of a passenger train, bound for Boston, at the Topsfield crossing on the Newburyport turnpike today.

Fitzmaurice and his passenger, Ralph Lynch, of the same address, escaped with severe cuts for which they were treated at the Topsfield state police barracks.

The driver told State Trooper William Farnon he did not see the train, the signal lights or a truck which had stopped to let the train pass.

He crashed into the side of one of the cars of the train, this machine was demolished by the only injuries he and Lynch received were from broken glass.

Flier Admits Hoax Notes in Love Triangle Death

Miami, Fla., May 3 (AP)—Capt. William N. Lancaster, British flier, today stands charged with first-degree murder in the strange shooting of Helen Clark, writer and fiancée of Mrs. Jessie Keith-Miller, the aviation's flying partner, on his reported confession to signing two suicide notes.

Hawthorne has contacted Mrs. Keith-Miller, in whose home the two men were guests at the time of the shooting, April 21, but said she would be called as a grand jury witness.

Hawthorne, who described the position of the trio before the shooting as forming a "love triangle," said Lancaster confessed, "I was the cause of this."

LOCKERS WITH KIDNAPERS OFF COAST

Famous Flier Said to Be Attempting to Work Directly With Son's Abductors

Norfolk, Va., May 3.—With reports that Col. Lindbergh was aboard only partially denied, the yacht Marcon was ready to put to sea today on a cruise in negotiations of Norfolk men to recover the kidnapped Lindbergh baby.

Today's trip, provided the Marcon gets under way, will mark the fourth time the craft has sailed from Norfolk with a view to winding up efforts of the local negotiators to return the stolen infant to its parents.

The paper said it was reliably reported that the famous flier has been in this section since April 22, when the first cruise aboard the Marcon was made in some port of the Virginia coast. The paper added that he accompanied John Hughes Curtis on these trips.

Twice had weather drove the boat to shelter after she started out. Curtis, shipbuilder and chief of the Norfolk negotiators for the baby's return, confident today's trip would bring an end to his wearying work.

So, too, were his associates Edwin R. Bruce, retired Elmira, N. Y., banker, Louis George L. Edwards, navy aviator who has piloted Curtis on his flights in connection with the negotiations, Rev. H. Dehob-Paenck, rector of Christ's Episcopal Church here, and Rear Admiral J. H. Burridge, retired.

LINDY REPORTED ABOARD

Reports that Col. Lindbergh was aboard the Marcon persisted today in spite of specific denial on the part of Frank H. Lickman, skipper of the craft.

Bruce refused to affirm or deny the report, although the flying colonel has been missing from his home in Hopewell, N. J., several days.

All of the negotiators were still confident they would be successful in securing the return of the baby.

One report stated Lindbergh was dealing through some privately established contact with the abductor who had the baby on a boat somewhere near Martha's Vineyard, Mass., and who was "double-crossed" by his two confederates who obtained the $50,000 ransom money through Dr. John T. Condon, New York, educator.

In Nickel Holdup

TIMID BANDITS SPOIL HER FUN

Mrs. Pauline Motz is disappointed and a bit bewildered over this whole holdup question. Just when she was building up a thrill by being held up by two armed youths—her wheeled and fled from her variety store at 109 Third st., Everett.

For it years Mrs. Motz has conducted the store without an untoward incident occurring, but last night three youths arrived in a car and while one remained in the machine the other two came in and asked for candy.

When Mrs. Motz turned back to the counter with a nickel candy bar, she was faced with revolvers in the hands of the youths. But just then there was a noise in back of the store, the holdup men wheeled and ran, and then fled in their car.

Mrs. Motz had her money in a purse in her apron pocket, too—all ready to foot any handits who rifled her cash drawer.

SIX GUILTY IN A PLOT TO 'FAKE' ACCIDENTS

Guilty pleas were made today in Middlesex Superior Court by six defendants named with others in an indictment charging conspiracy to steal from various companies through false claims in "fake" accidents.

Three others, who pleaded not guilty to the indictment, charged had these charges not pressed by Asst. Dist. Atty. Crafts, who declared that "there is no evidence that acts of these three individuals were committed with a knowledge of any conspiracy and their acts were consistent with innocent acts with guilt."

Those who pleaded guilty were: Mrs. Effie Booker, her husband, Albert T. Booker, her daughter, Mrs. Jeanette Collins; another daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Zega; her husband, Louis Zega; and Robert Harrison. Harrison lives in Cambridge and all the others are from Somerville.

The not pusses were made by Crafts in the cases of Charles A. Booker, husband of Mrs. Booker; Francis Horton of Somerville and Sophie O'Brien of West Somerville. Following the arrangements, Louis Zega and his wife Dorothy were taken before the Middlesex County grand jury, and Asst. Dist. Atty. Crafts admitted that the insurance ring investigation had been resumed and that the Zegas were testifying as important witnesses.

3-CENT POSTAL RATE ASSURED

Washington, May 3 (INS)—An increase in first-class postage rates from 2 to 3 cents was virtually assured today when Postmaster General Brown urged the Senate Finance Committee to increase the postal revenue in the new tax bill.

A ten per cent manufacturers' sales tax on fur was written into the tax bill by the finance committee. A tentative agreement on this tax was reached last week and a motion to strike it out today failed.

Brown reported to the committee the revenue it could obtain by increasing second-class rates applying to newspapers, magazines and other periodicals. Brown said $2,500,000 additional revenue could be obtained by restoring the 1925 second-class rates with $100,000 additional by adopting the old 1921 rates. The 1925 rates begin with 2 cents a pound for the first and second zones and go to 9 cents for the eighth and ninth zones. The 1921 rates run as high as 10 cents in the eighth zone.

The House already has increased first-class rates from 2 to 3 cents. Brown said this would bring in $134,000,000 more revenue.

He urged an increase in the second-class postage on county publications and those having less than 5 per cent advertising. He urged the latter rate, now one cent a pound, be increased to 1½ cents. He said this was fair if the second-class rate on periodicals, containing more than 5 per cent advertising, were raised.

PRISON AN OUTRAGE

The sentence has got to be lightened. It's going to be. Mrs. Porteus and Massie and those two gobs will never serve the full 10 years. The lenient recommendation and a provision of the territorial law will take care of that. But here's my position—those people should never serve as much as 10 minutes of that Asiatic-dictated sentence. No, not even 10 seconds. The very closing of a prison gate on them would be a mighty outrage.

And something else. We ought to press Congress—you and I, all of us—to put Hawaii under military rule. Under the combined rule, maybe, of the United States Army and the United States Navy. That can't be done too soon. We want the policing of our Pacific Gibraltar taken out of politics. We want disciplined and well-officered soldiers and sailors patrolling those perilous streets for the protection of our women, not a motley and undependable force running so strongly to Asiatics and half-castes.

MAY LOSE ISLANDS

We've got to make Hawaii American and keep it American, if we're not some day suddenly to find ourselves without our protective outpost in the Pacific, and one West Coast exposed to hostile raiders.

If we don't dominate those islands, we've got one fine chance of losing them.

Why not, boys and girls? get out your pens and pencils. Write to your representatives and tell them what you want! This is political. This is controversial. Maybe you don't want white American rule in Hawaii. I do. That's why I'm going on record as strong as I am in this here blast. If there are folks like me—alan in a blast to Washington. That's the side I'm on.

DO YOU INHALE?

Why is this vital question so much avoided by other cigarettes?

EVER since Lucky Strike created that special process for purifying fine tobacco and told the full facts about cigarette smoking—the industry has been in an uproar. For Lucky Strike has dared to mention things that were considered "taboo" in the cigarette trade.

You may have noticed a striking avoidance generally of the word "inhale" in cigarette advertising. Why? Goodness only knows! For everybody inhales—knowingly or unknowingly! Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

That's why it's all-important to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure you don't inhale certain impurities.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question—for it gives you the protection you want...because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

DRY ERA LOADED BY BISHOP ANDERSON

Atlantic City, May 3 (INS)—The tables have been turned on the anti-prohibitionists in today's "rescue" crisis in the fight for a sober world," declared Bishop William P. Anderson of Boston, to the general superintendents of the Methodist Episcopal church in quadrennial conference today.

While repealists may feel their opinions are not being respected in certain states, they must not forget that the situation was precisely the other way round before the national prohibition law was passed, he pointed out.

And that law, the Eighteenth Amendment, about which there is such a hue and cry in the present denial campaign days, still is the proper method for reducing the consumption of beverage alcohol, the Methodist bishops believe.

As a possible substitute for the national prohibition nothing has been suggested but a local option, the Bishop stated. His report is considered judgment of the whole board of 28 bishops.

The Bishop reminded his audience of 820 men and women, from every State in the Union and 40 foreign lands, that the prohibition crime, ill children, disease and corrupt politics were the result of the law and that the passage of the prohibition law made the connection "less obvious."

Canada Warns Doukhobors

Victoria, B. C., May 3 (AP)—The Dominion government came to the aid of the Doukhobors today to make the Doukhobors keep on their clothes.

Nettled by Sunday's riot at Tirum, when police sprayed nude protesters, men and women, with high powder and arrested 18, officials said they would settle the problem once and for all time.

Members of the sect were taken to school and observe all other laws or go to prison for long terms, they were warned.

Notified another nude parade was planned, provincial officials said it might be necessary to arrest 500, and the province's prison could not hold them.

In Ottawa, a plan to herd the Doukhobors into a compound was under consideration.

'SWAT THE DRY' FIGHT IS ON

This new "Swat the Dry" stamp is expected to contribute materially to the success of the anti-dry campaign in the forth coming presidential elections. Prohibitionist "insects" are depicted being laid low by a sheaf of ballots used as a swatter. The proceeds from the sale of the stamps at one cent each are to be used to carry on the anti-prohibition battle. (International News Photo.)

BOOKS—and a Number of Things

By Charles Hanson Towne

Erwin Basil was a German doctor who went to Japan in 1878. He remained there for many years, first as professor of physiology and internal medicine at the Imperial Medical Academy in Yedo-Tokyo. His first term was for two years, but he was to have free passage out and home, and free living quarters; also the privilege of private practice. He it was who first brought swimming into repute among the Japanese; and it was due to him that jiu-jitsu, now known to all the world, but then almost forgotten in the land of its origin, was revived. He kept copious diaries; and these have been edited by his son, and those industrious translators, Efen and Cedar Paul, have given them to us in English under the title of "Awakening Japan." The Viking Press is the publisher.

The arrival of Dr. Basil in Japan was anything but propitious. No one came to meet this distinguished visitor, who had been promoted an interpreter, a government official, and so on, to make his path easy. A customer offered finally put him into a small boat with his luggage, and directed to the ship, he landed on Japanese soil. But he came to like these people, and writing in those first far-off days of 1878, he says that "less than ten years ago the Japanese were living under conditions like those of our prehistoric age and the feudal system of the Middle Ages, with its monastic, guild, caste, universal, and so on, but that within night and morning, one might almost say, and with one great leap Japan is trying to traverse the stages of five centuries of European development, and to assimilate in the twinkling of an eye all the latest achievements of western civilization."

Young Folk to Attend Show

The performance of "Hansel and Gretel" at the Essex Theatre on Saturday morning, with music following the opera, is an attractive widespread interest to the community at large, and throughout Boston and its suburbs.

Mrs. Robert S. Hillier will attend with her son, Stanley. Mrs. Philip Rogers of Cambridge is giving assistance to the committee in charge, and is among the patronesses who will bring her children, Robert and Donald. Mrs. Carol Furlong will bring her young daughter, Barbara, to this delightful performance. Miss Lolla Walker of Cambridge will arrange their party for any desired cooperation and special terms.

Mrs. William H. Ridding of Brookline, who with W. L. W. Mayo, Jr., director of the Kurn Hall House, which will benefit by this occasion, are arranged as a feature of the occasion, sincere and special interest to the event by a distinguished chef of this vicinity. They will be sold, fringed and boxed at a minimum figure of five cents. Liberal proportion is for the assistance of the homeless children.

GIRL BANDIT IS SHOT DEAD IN HOLDUP

Oklahoma City, May 3 (AP)—A young woman dressed in black was shot dead yesterday as she fled from a drug store holdup.

The druggist, J. H. Jackson, declared he shot her as she hurried from the place with about $15 of his money. She was identified by L. J. Hilbert, police auto theft bureau operative, as Lena Hurt, 25. Hilbert said she had been arrested previously on vagrancy and drunkenness charges.

Wearing a plain black silk gown and a fur necktie, the woman entered the store, west of fifth business district on Main st., about 9 a. m.

"Something you wanted?" asked Jackson.

"You know what I want," he said she replied, producing a revolver from under a coat she carried. "Give me your money."

Jackson complied and the woman ran from the store. The druggist seized his pistol and followed, firing from the doorway. The first bullet went wild and the woman wheeled about. Jackson said he fired again and she fell a bullet in her head.

CITY DEFENDER STOLEN; CALLS POLICE AID

San Francisco, May 3 (INS).—Statewide search for Frank J. Egan, city public defender, was under way today following his frantic telephone call to police announcing he had been kidnapped.

Captain of Inspectors Charles Dulles said Egan called him at 9 o'clock last night and cried:

"These men have got me. . . This is Frank Egan. . . I'm at the ferry building."

"Who has got you?" Dulles asked. "None of my men."

"No," Egan replied. "These men let me phone my wife, and I'm phoning you instead."

Before he could say anything more, Egan was apparently wrestled away from the telephone, Dulles said.

Egan was a close friend of Mrs. Joseph Hughes whose crushed body was found Friday night in the fashionable Forest Hill district.

Police announced that shortly before Egan's frantic telephone call, they were convinced Mrs. Hughes was either beaten to death or poisoned and her body was then dragged from the house and run over to give the appearance of a hit-and-run accident.

Egan was executor of Mrs. Hughes' estate, and is believed to be the principal beneficiary of her will.

EFFORTS OF AMERICAN COMPOSERS FALL SHORT OF OPPORTUNITIES

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

ON SUNDAY EVENING I heard the N. B. C. Symphony playing the five compositions selected by a distinguished committee for the N. B. C. Orchestral Awards of this year. Mr. Damrosch and Mr. Stokowski had been among others, on the committee. Mr. Deems Taylor explained the awards and announced the music. All over the United States competent judges were listening in to decide which of the five pieces were to rate the first and the second prize in all, I believe, totalling several thousands of dollars.

The same day up in Saratoga Springs a group of contemporary American composers, assembled for the first annual festival of American music of today, proceeded to put their critics on the pan, accusing them of prejudice, lack of sympathy and understanding, and ignorance of the new music. By 'new' I suppose is meant the music of the whole scale, of harmonies that seem to the lover of old music mere dissonances, of melodies that are sad and strange.

Now I like new music when it has energy and imaginative power and melody, even if the melody be "modern." But the arrogance of these Saratoga folks tempts me to record my impressions of the N. B. C. prize compositions as I heard them Sunday night.

American Music Given Its Chance

American musicians need no longer complain that they are not heard. Every great symphony conductor plays their music when it is worth playing—Koussevitzky, Stokowski, Damrosch; such school orchestras as the Eastman in Rochester and the Bok in Philadelphia not only play it but broadcast it. The public has a chance to hear it over the radio. The N. B. C. award encourages it. The American musician is in better case than ever before. How does he rise to his opportunity?

I heard five compositions on Sunday evening. They were: "Symphonie latine," a tone poem with a good deal of strength and melody and an interesting dance section; "Traffic," an impression of city streets, apparently suggested by Gershwin's "An American in Paris," but lacking everything of the sharp vitality and relentless speed of that little classic. It might have been traffic in old Boston, while the church bells chimed. There was no drive in it, no sense of America.

"Sinfonietta," with no program to help you out; a purely formal piece of music, mostly minor, and very monotonous: "The Dancer Dead," based on an ancient Greek epiphany, all about a beautiful dancer who could drink three bowls of wine without feeling it and was apparently a lively lady. The piece was intolerably minor and discordant and monotonous. It might have been a requiem for a member of the W. C. T. U. It spoke of life without ecstasy and death without passion; it was interminably drawn and super-civilized, no more the spirit of the Greek Anthology than a Puritan hymn.

The last piece was called "Station WGBZ," a series of four little sketches of a broadcasting station, "The Lobby," "Static," "Mike Struck" and one other. Most of these were alive, with humor and vivacity and sense of actuality. The jazz episode was the weakest, because the composer didn't seem to understand what jazz was all about. But the thing carried after a fashion.

America Speaks in Major Key

I bet on the "Symphonie latine" and "Station WGBZ" for the two chief prizes. The other three are negligible. It seems amazing that out of some 500 or 700 compositions submitted, the best to be found are such weak and nervous and monotonous work.

The fact of the matter is that the average American composer has nothing to say. Music that lasts is music of strong melody—not necessary pretty-pretty—and imaginative energy and an idea. These musicians seem to have no interest in what America is saying. America, in spite of the depression, is still composed in a major key. A symphonic poem on "Traffic" might have been a great thundering hymn of vibrant energies, instead of the minor, timid thing we heard.

Why poets drably over a dead Greek dancer? Why not a funeral march for a dead Greek? With tragic change and revolution in the air all round us, what good to pick at minor, straggling lamenting a long-dead dancer. What made Wagner great? Because he was primarily a revolutionist, who took socialism and the super-man into music. The energy of Dvorak's "New World" symphony was the energy of a dream and an ideal, phrased in basic folk-songs. "The Pines of Rome" by Respighi says something more than Rome. Three-fifths of this program said nothing about anything.

When you say "melody" to a modern composer he sneers at you for preferring Gounod and Bizet. Not necessarily! There is great melody in modern music in Schubert, in Stravinsky, in Prokofiev, in modern music. These are these—because there is imaginative energy behind them. They say something!

A month or two ago I spoke of John Alden Carpenter's choral symphonic composition on George Washington. I can still hear it. In imagination, that scenery, the phrasing of phrases, strings playing in the minor, that had no discernible relationship to the normal human masculinity of that 18th century Virginian. It said nothing about Washington, nothing about America. It was music of the steppes, music of the Gold desert, walking, Oriental, fatalistic. It was defeatist music.

Program of Defeatist Music

Most of what I heard on Sunday evening seemed to me defeatist music, born out of intellectuality mechanically competent by spirits thin and self-starved and uncreative. Why did American music and amateur alike, take "The Rhapsody in Blue" to its heart? Today it is old hat, played out, but it is still a mine of inspiration for less musical people. It was preposterous, like a good deal. It was creative and had the capacity to create. All good music has this capacity, because it is born of ideas, of imaginative energy so strong that the melody is inevitable.

For all his encouragement of the American musician today is in a far less healthy state than the American painter. The "modern" American painter seems at times a bit too strong and tonic, too highly colored, too violent in his vision of the world. But that is a healthy fault. It is a fault in the right direction. Exuberance can be disciplined. But what can you do with the merely negative?

I wish that three of those five compositions could simply be refused prizes. They are not worth rewarding. And our American critics are only presenting an essentially sound and healthy point of view when they refuse to believe that Niblist and Defeatism are all that American music has to say to the world.

SAY'S DEAD MOTHER BALKED SCIDE

CHILD TAKEN BY COURT FROM IRENE FORE

Ex-Husband of a Slain Gangster's Former Companion Is Given Custody of Girl, 4

Once more Irene Fore, 23, of Roxbury, has paid for her folly in leaving home to look for thrills.

In Probate Court at Dedham today Judge McClenahan granted her ex-husband, Clyde Fore, wealthy Providence youth custody of their four-year-old daughter.

Two weeks later Mrs. Fore, whose marriage had raised her in respect to her home, later she returned and took her baby away. Last March when Fore divorced her, she was granted custody of the child.

Her husband learned that she had boarded the child out, and as a result he petitioned the court to alter the divorce decree in so far as it applied to the child.

STICKERS STICK 1000 A DAY

More than 1000 autoists were hooked the first day in the drive against the Motor Vehicle Ryan sticker. The drive has sent thousands of letters to get broken, lights and other equipment into shape.

Each sticker driver was warned to have his vehicle inspected within a certain time or suffer drastic action.

Complaints that many stickers left off windshield because of rain brought the suggestion from Ryan that a coat of varnish be placed over stickers that are exposed to the weather.

In addition to lack of stickers many drivers have been operating without licenses in their possession, Ryan said.

The drive will continue a week or ten days.

LUDLOW IS AROUSED BY HUNGER STRIKE FOR 'RED FLAME'

(This is the fourth in a series of articles exposing the tax collection racket, a form of organized extortion, which is practicing countless and depriving collectors and victimizing reputable citizens in Massachusetts.)

Peter Krynicki and his relatives and neighbors are still striving to figure how Deputy J. J. MacFadden could charge him extra "travel expense" of $2.90 for walking with him to his mother's house, a distance of 600 feet.

And Charles Mikas says MacFadden handed him just as big a brain-twister when he compelled him to pay $7 before MacFadden would give him a receipt for an $8-cent expense tax bill.

These are only a few samples of the tax collection methods used in Ludlow, where the Boston Evening American today received further evidence in its investigation of a state-wide evil made possible by a vicious law which not only provides for up to five years' imprisonment, but encourages unscrupulous collectors to squeeze in extras which they pocket.

There have been so many complaints in Ludlow that the Ludlow Property Owners' Association has taken charge of the situation. A public meeting was held last week in Bartlett Hall where grievances were aired.

The community is aroused and clamoring for a change in the law which was made more hardships by an amendment last year.

Thrills Costly

Deputy Collector MacFadden is the storm center. He and his wife are accused of acting in a high-handed and illegal manner in a drive to wipe out all delinquent taxes.

Tax Collector Alfred E. Booth claims responsibility for the act complained of, saying that he never had the job over to Deputy MacFadden. Booth admitted, however, that he had been refused a bond until he had been refused a bond until he had been refused a bond.

MacFadden and his "help" insured the town early last week and used drastic methods. He took two citizens to jail and is alleged to have threatened several others with arrest.

"I did this for the protection of civil service employees generally," said Lomasney, "but primarily to protect them from being discharged by managers after every municipal election. We had been the victim after a hot municipal election of a hot municipal election of a hot municipal election."

TOILETS FOUND STURDY FRIEND IN LOMASNEY

In the movement to place a plank for recognition of the Republic of Ireland in the Democratic national platform.

It was vividly impressed in the respect Lomasney commanded in the struggle. The biggest men in the party—former Governor Dunn, Edward Bohan, Frank P. Walsh, Senator Thurlin and others of that type, went to Lomasney for advice and took his orders and directions.

"We got a roll call as Martin suggested, receiving 65 votes. The voters went for Lomasney and Martin former Mayor John Fitzgerald of Pawtucket, R. I. The late Grenville S. MacFarland and self-labeled together at Hotel Whitecomb the voters were taken with Martin and was profuse in his thanks to him.

Frank P. Walsh, famous Kansas City attorney, a member of the War Labor Board, was not out for the voters. He had also held forth in Martin's leadership and followed Lomasney's instructions implicitly.

Wherever Frank P. Walsh comes to Boston, about the first thing he does is to journey down to the West End to meet the "Volunteers."

"Boss Nugent of New Jersey and the late Bourke Corcoran were at first inclined to resist Martin's leadership of the Irish plank movement, but they came to the scratch and both apologized for their previous attitude."

"I have often felt that Martin's failure to go in Congress was a national calamity. Lomasney, according to Albert Bushnell Hall, played a great part in the Massachusetts constitutional convention."

"I don't imagine how Martin, a graduate of the college of hard knocks, toward head and shoulders over most of the Irish planks of the Constitutional Convention."

RIGHT-SEILING KEEPS STOCKS HEADED DOWN

New York, May 3.—Light selling on the New York stock exchange today proved sufficient to keep important stocks headed down most of the session. Trading, however, was not very active.

Weakening of the dollar in the foreign exchange markets was one of the notable developments of the day in Wall Street. It generally was attributed to international banking quarters to obstacles encountered in Washington in the way of budget balancing and the passage by the House of the Goldsmith bill directing the Reserve System to endeavor to restore commodity prices through manipulation of credit and currency.

LITTLE CHANGE SHOW

Stocks showed little change from recent sessions. Oil and some of the leaders, such as U. S. Steel and American Telephone, set the best. Liquidation again centered in utility stocks. The market was not closed with a heavy tone. Ralls were full and most potential liquidation was met.

Lockman, Penney, Safeway, Industrial, and Colonial, and others, were 2 to 3, while Atchafon, American Telephone, Du Pont, General Motors, and Procter and Gamble sagged 1 to 1 1/2.

American Telephone and U. S. Steel held up best. Standard Oil of New Jersey was 1/2 down. The market was not closed with a heavy tone. Ralls were full and most potential liquidation was met.

What the Hearst Papers Advocate No. 5 [Army, Navy and Aviation—all united under a Secretary of National Defense.]

BOSTON, TUESDAY, MAY 3, 1932

Roosevelt, the Great, Was Right About Hawaii

If Congress had followed the advice of President Roosevelt and placed the supervision of the Hawaiian Islands under the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department, the American people would not be on the defensive before the world today for the shocking state of affairs that disgraces Hawaii, jeopardizes our national defense and humiliates the household of the nation.

As far back as December 3, 1906, President Roosevelt, in a message to the Congress, stated:

"The administration of the Affairs of Porto Rico, together with those of the Philippines, Hawaii and our other insular possessions, should be directed under one executive department."

After a visit to Porto Rico, President Roosevelt, in a special message to Congress on December 11, 1906, recommended that:

"All the insular governments should be placed in one bureau," and added:

"It is a mistake not to arrange our handling of these islands at Washington so as to be able to take advantage of the experience gained in one when dealing with the problems that from time to time arise in another."

On January 7, 1907, President Roosevelt addressed to the Secretary of War an inquiry relative to the feasibility of designating the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department as the Federal office to have supervision over Hawaiian affairs.

And on the same day a bill to accomplish this purpose was introduced in the House of Representatives after Mr. Roosevelt had been advised by his Attorney-General that the transfer could not be made by executive order, but only after the necessary legislative authority had been granted.

Unfortunately for the people of the Hawaiian Islands, the national defense and the honor of the United States, Congress failed to adopt the wise recommendation of this farseeing President and great American.

Because of this failure, twenty-five years ago, by the Congress to follow the advice of Theodore Roosevelt, the Hawaiian Islands, which were acquired to strengthen the national defense, have been so maladministered that they are not even safe for American womanhood.

Congress should take to heart the lesson of experience, reorganize the government of Hawaii and place it under the supervision of the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department, as Roosevelt recommended.

The sooner this transfer is made the better it will be for the Hawaiian people, the national defense and the honor of the United States.

The 'Hunger' Marchers Some Mean Well

The Massachusetts "hunger parade" was like one of those concrete ships built during the war.

It just wouldn't float.

The construction was not so good.

There were, no doubt, some well intentioned men and women in this little demonstration.

But now that it is over they must have some difficulty in realizing how the release of Edith Berkman, three cheers for the Soviet and the strains of "Internationale" can play a sensible or logical part in supplying work for unemployed Americans.

Of course, the sleek young leaders can count the affair quite a social success.

They got a chance to make their speeches. They got their pictures in the papers. They rode in comfortable auto, while the "hunger" for whom they professed so much concern, trudged through the driving rain. And now back to headquarters in New York where they will report to the "chief" who they roused the sleeping conscience of "the proletariat" of the Bay State.

You won't find callouses on the hands of these young men. Nor unpaid grocer's bills in their pockets. They've got something in THEIR heads, and it's not concrete.

Youngman and $563,000 Public Entitled to All the Facts

Mr. Youngman, the Lieutenant-Governor, is being denounced in some quarters for having sent a special message to the Legislature on a controversial subject the day he was Acting Governor.

We are told by some people that for an Acting Governor to usurp the functions of a Governor is not good hockey; it just hasn't been done.

Perhaps not. But NOW that it HAS BEEN DONE, what will be the result?

The issue involves the proposed payment of $563,000 of the public money to the present owners of the Boston & Worcester Street Railway for the purchase of their franchise.

That is a substantial sum of money, even in good times. Possibly the franchise is worth that sum. And possibly not.

At least, the public will hear something about the merits of the proposed transaction, now that it is before the Legislature.

Which might not have been the case, had it remained within the state chamber of commerce and the Board of Railroad Commissioners.

The sum of $563,000 is worth talking about.

Noah Had It Easier

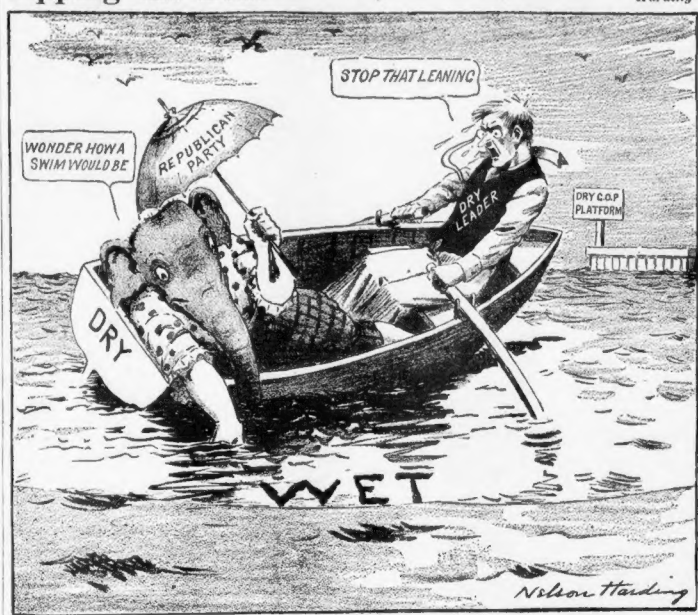

In this day and age when dictionaries are so cheap and every taxi driver is a virtuoso at crossword puzzles, the showing at the spelling bee at New York University is mortifying to contemplate.

Ten candidates for the prize flunked on such simple words as "anyploony" and "paleoglypophryxology." "Elesomyany" floored two as swiftly as if it were a half Nelson, although it hadn't an "r" in it. Anafetide is used to cure spasms, but three scholars got spasms trying to spell it right.

Can it be that higher education is a failure? Was Noah Webster born for nothing? In the bright lexicon of modern youth there's nothing tougher than "yeah" or "O. K."

Still, one need not wholly despair. R. L. Stevenson lamented he could never spell "hemorrhage." And in the mind of the Happy Warrior, as firmly as if cut in adamant, "radio" is yet spelled with two "d's."

Tipping the Boat

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Thou Art There!

YOU ARE LONELY. You have been lonely all your life.

Even with many people around you in laughing, lighted places, you are lonely.

Even when you are doing the things you like best, and with the one you love, most, you are lonely.

It startles you to read those words. You had thought they were your hidden secret. How did I guess this thing about you?

I guessed it because I am that way, too.

We are all that way. We wear loneliness like a badge of honor.

That is why we love to sit in the quiet places and be still for a while. We will sit until you forget yourself a little and can hear the small voices of life rising all around you. Then say that—and you will be comforted.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Boston Evening American.)

Thou knowest my down-sitting and mine uprisings.

Thou understandest my thoughts afar off.

Thou comprehendest my path, and art acquainted with all my ways.

Whither shall I go from Thy Spirit?

Or whither shall I flee from Thy Presence?

If I ascend up into heaven, Thou art there.

If I make my bed in hell, behold, Thou art there.

If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea,

Even there shall Thy hand lead me, And Thy right hand shall hold me.

Are you lonely? Say that when quiet places and be still for a while. We will sit until you forget yourself a little and can hear the small voices of life rising all around you. Then say that—and you will be comforted.

Penthouse High Jinks

NEW YORK, May 3.—There are many reasons for the declining popularity of the highly publicized penthouse, tipping skyscrapers.

The first is a problem in economics and the second is the aura of scandal that has temporarily engulfed them.

The majority were and are eminently respectable abodes—fashionably poised high in clean air and far from the crowd.

But respectable occupants suffered from the high jinks that escaped into sensational headlines in the tabloids.

The penthouse became a symbol for those living from a flood of money featuring penthouse crimes national in a background of gin, jazz and philanthropy.

And the "love nest" became a part of newspaperese.

In the beginning, the penthouse was a cheap shack to house scruffy women and janitors after the fashion of the plantation.

Some cramped-in city dwellers visualized the freedom of roof homes, and although he built a sky castle, it retained the old name, penthouse.

Each new one expressed an increasing grandeur. Brooks adhered through terraced lawns. There were squash and tennis courts, artificial lakes and gurgling waterfalls.

The miniature splendor of a Louis XV. estate was often packed in small space.

The first of such magnificent series nestled in the canyons near Fulton down town and were erected by Percy Rockefeller and Henry L. Doherty.

East Carroll followed these with a garish Chinese bungalow in the theatrical district. Claude Nat was first on the Gold Coast.

Today there are scores between the Bronx and Bowling Green, but many are now deserted.

Occupants have moved to less expensive quarters.

Of course, penths will fill again in brighter days, for in many ways they are the most desirable domiciles in the metropolis.

The sudden democracy of the times is among the warming phenomena of a new town.

Only recently a gracious hostess gave a luncheon for her mansion at her home on the fashionable East Side.

And among the guests at a recent luncheon was a bachelor's bachelor, a former student at the Sorbonne, who proved one of the most delightful conversationalists present.

A few years ago I motored to a home in the remote English countryside for a dinner party.

The late Arnold Bennett was one of the distinguished guests, yet a distinct memory of that event was of a self-sufficing valet who came to my rescue in knotting a dinner tie.

He had for six years languished in the despair of an isolation in India with his master.

A suppressed intellect burst out in a five minute flood of talk. It was the most interesting commentary on civilization I ever heard.

Suddenly conscious of his garrulity, he withdrew with an apologetic murmur. No brilliant at the dinner touched the narrative splendor of his monologue.

The head of a celebrated detective agency revealed, to a few intimates recently that the presence of Enrico came broke up on the day. It was an amazing of kidnapping plots. A vessel had been actually chartered and the singer was to be abducted to Paris and held for a million-dollar ransom.

About That Hole In One

For eighteen years at golf I've played,

But never a hole in one I made.

For reasons strange, beyond control,

My shots would never find the hole.

Then on the ninth of April came

The ace that brought me golfing fame.

Upon the front page of the press

Was spread the tale of my success.

The news went flying up and down

To every neighborhood of the town.

I think that parsons here and there

Used it as evidence of prayer.

Saving the hole in one I'd made

Was first-hand proof that I had prayed.

A merchant called me from his store

To ask me just what socks I wore.

The banker phoned. He wished to use

That most astounding bit of news

To advertise the fact that he

Had once lost money unto me.

An act which happened years ago

Before the market fell so low.

The druggist asked if he might say

His tonic made me get that way.

Upon the heels we call the third.

This fortunate event occurred—

Upon the heels we call the third.

Cost me a most distressing six—

On Number Eight—an easy four—

For I struck a rolling rubber ball.

And grinning comrades looking on

Cried: "See what follows holes in one!"

'Change Abuses. Speak Need of Real Clean-up

By Julius G. Berens

Financial Editor New York American.

THE NEW YORK Stock Exchange is at the cross-roads of its career.

One path leads to Government incorporation. The other is toward a thoroughgoing internal house-cleaning conducted by the Exchange itself.

The Stock Exchange ought not to underestimate the current now swinging against it.

It is a tide of bitterness, of disillusionment, of intense anger. This feeling has been stirred not so much by the violent losses suffered, but rather by the indisputable disclosures of a public thrown to the wolves of finance.

Long before the Senate investigation got under way, the Stock Exchange had been subjected to an ever-growing just criticism.

The Exchange defense has been weak and unsatisfactory. Its very members have disputed Exchange officials' testimony.

One Stock Exchange member brazenly admitted he utilized his name in order to skirt "around the Stock Exchange rules."

Specialists in stocks, more familiar with buying and selling orders than anyone else, are revealed as having made this valuable information available to pools in which not they but their wives were participants.

The Exchange president's OWN FIRM is revealed as having "pegged"—that is deliberately maintained the price of—the German bonds until the Morgan Syndicate had disposed of its holdings of these bonds, which shortly thereafter suffered violent price depreciation.

No one disputes legitimacy of a Stock Exchange. It is an irreplaceable cog in the complicated modern economic machine.

But the Stock Exchange facilities have been abused, to the great suffering of the public.

The Stock Exchange officials have closed their eyes and THEREBY CONDONED abuse of its facilities. Its own members have been involved in these abuses.

The Stock Exchange has recognized no law but its own. Its own laws have proved inadequate for protection of the public.

The clamor for governmental regulation of the Stock Exchange will not be killed off by platitudinous defense of its methods.

The Stock Exchange must furnish assurance that its members will be constrained from utilizing their favored knowledge against the best interests of the public.

THE Stock Exchange must place the public on a par with its members.

No mere verbal defense of its practices and policies suffices today.

Mr. Whitney's threat about "closing the Stock Exchange" was a mere puff of wind.

The Stock Exchange DARES NOT CLOSE. It would close only in its own extinction.

For as sure as the sun rises and sets there would arise an irresistible demand for establishment of a new exchange, predicated on public welfare and dedicated to the development of a TRUE MARKET, which is merely a meeting-place for buyer and seller.

Within the Exchange itself there must be members who visualize impending events.

These liberals must foresee Government regulation and control.

They must recognize the alternative:

A thoroughgoing internal revamping of the rules and practices of the Exchange in the best interests of the public, NOT of the members alone.

Governmental incorporation or self-purging? The Stock Exchange has its choice.

Conditions in Our Jails Lomasney Pioneer Fighter for Improvement

In the interesting account of Martin M. Lomasney's forty years in the political arena, now being published in this newspaper, you have read of his terrific struggle to abolish the abominable conditions he discovered in the Boston jail.

Prisoners were held for ninety days in solitary confinement, like the infamous Black Hole of Calcutta. Others were chained to the floor, like beasts. Their plight was worse than the galley slaves, for at least was free from the filth and stench of this squalid atmosphere.

Lomasney was a strong young man, but his strength collapsed and he was a long time regaining his health, impaired by the nauseating conditions he discovered in the jail and his long campaign to cause their elimination.

We think we have made some improvement since those days. But it takes a Columbus fire or a Leavesworth outbreak or a "Big House" to remind us that the same old abuses still exist here and there.

We will always need vigilant fighters of the Lomasney type to prevent a return of bestial conditions. We have done well in Massachusetts, but it has been done by the eternal vigilance of humane, right-thinking people less interested in penthouses than in their unfortunate fellow beings of the "Big Houses."

Platform Too Simple

John W. Prentiss, who was born in Bangor, who learned how to work in Boston, where he began as an office boy at $3 a week, and who went over to New York to make his fortune, suggests a simple platform to put the government and the country on the right road again.

His platform—

"We demand that the country stop spending money it has not got."

"We demand a sales tax to balance the budget."

"We demand unconditional repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment."

The trouble with Mr. Prentiss' platform is that it is too simple, sturdy and straightforward for politicians to adopt.
